Just so no one forgets about the show, Youth Center members are staging a big parade through town on Tuesday, starting at about 12:30 o'clock. The high school band, police department, fire department, even the ambulance and anything else that rolls or walks will be out to help advertise the show, which the kids annually stage as their own fund-raising activity for the Youth Center. Tickets for the show are now available from any Youth Center member, or at Putnam & Raggett, Staniford's, the Browse-Around Music Shop or Graham's Music Company.

Marjorie Doolittle Show Opens Today At Art Assn. Gallery

A one-man showing of recent works by Marjorie Doolittle opens today in the alcove room at the Carmel Art Association Gallery. Included in the showing will be several paintings made by Mrs. Doolittle in the course of a Mexico tour last October.

A resident of Carmel for nearly 25 years and an Art Association member for over 10 years, Mrs. Doolittle has been one of the Carmel gallery's most consistent exhibitors. She has studied here with Armin Hansen and Patricia and John Cunningham, and also studied with Hans Hoffman in Los Angeles.

STATE BUYS BEACH

County Clerk Emmet McMenamin got a check for $99,000 from the State of California Wednesday for the purchase of 18½ acres of beach at San Jose Creek for a state park. The check will be turned over to the Allens, Rileys and Hudsons who own the land.

Easter Services In Carmel And The Valley Churches

The traditional Easter Sunrise Service in Carmel Valley will open the solemn and beautiful celebration of Easter Sunday by churches in the Carmel area.

The sunrise service commences at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning on the knoll behind Robles del Rio Lodge. In the event of rain, the service will be held in the Carmel Valley Community Chapel.

Easter Sunday will be observed at Carmel Mission with Low Masses at 7:00, 8:00, 9:30 and 12:15 o'clock. Solemn High Mass will be celebrated at 11:00 by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael D. O'Connell. The Mission choir, with Noel Sullivan as director and organist, will sing the Gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass and several Gregorian chants.

Good Friday services will be celebrated from noon to 3:00 o'clock at the Mission with Mass of the Pre-Sanctified, followed by meditations on the Seven Last Words. Accompanied by Mr. Sullivan, a quartet will sing Gounod's setting of The Seven Last Words; soloists will be Janine Johnston, soprano; Ruth Cooke, alto; Mark Guerin, tenor, and Gene Bartlett, baritone. Holy Saturday services will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening, with confessions from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock and 7:30 to 9:00 o'clock. The traditional Easter Vigil will be held from 10:30 o'clock until midnight, and will consist of the blessing of the Easter fire, baptismal water and Paschal candle, the chanting of the prophecies, renewal of baptismal vows and High Mass.

All Saints' Episcopal Church will offer the Holy Communion at 7:30 o'clock Easter Sunday morning, with the Rev. Alfred B. Secombe as celebrant. The family festival service will take place at (Continued on Page Fourteen)

Chitwood, Patnude Like The Election Results—They Won

John Chitwood, incumbent, and Carl Patnude, won the two vacancies on the city council in Tuesday's election, which brought out a 33 percent vote.

Alton Walker, Dr. James Finley and Dr. John Nelson were elected to the airport board.

Chitwood said he was particularly pleased because he feels that his election represents public faith in the council. "They have had difficult issues to face, one of them the parking district. I think the answer will evolve through public participation in discussions with the council." He added that the city is in good financial position, and there is possibility "that we will have a surplus."

Patnude commented, "This is getting to be a trite statement, but it's important to me. There is increasing pressure to change the nature of Carmel. I feel I was elected on the promise that I would do all I could, not only to maintain the values that are in (Continued on Page Fourteen)

Parking Petition Started

As a first step toward forming a parking district, a committee headed by Corum Jackson started passing petitions this week among the property owners in the business district, and report they are getting "pretty good results."

This is a repeat performance. Last year's petition missed fire, though it had the required number of signatures, because it did not specify what land was to be acquired by the district for parking lots.

This time the lots are listed by lot and block number. They are:

Two lots on the south-east corner of Dolores and Eighth, opposite the Drive-In Market. There is a house on them and they are in the residence zone.

The triangle on Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Mountain View. Five lots, unoccupied except for oak trees.

The single lot on which stands the Tom Hefling cottage near Nielsen's Professional Building on the west side of Lincoln between Seventh and Eighth.

Single lot north of the Girl Scout House on the west side of (Continued on Page Fourteen)

Peninsula Week

Etiquette question: What's the proper procedure when your congressman goes before the United States Supreme Court? Do you send him flowers? Or will a simple greeting card do?

When they accused our congressman, Ernie Bramblett, of falsifying his payroll, Ernie said he'd fight it, he'd fight it all the way to the supreme court, if necessary. But shucks, people are always saying that.

When Ernie was convicted in district court some months ago, his lawyer went to work on Judge Walter Bastian for a stay of sentence on the contention that the "kickback" law didn't apply to congressmen, just executive department agency people and such lesser fry. Wednesday, Judge Bastian decided he was undecided about the application of the law. Let the supreme court figure it out.

The exhaust fumes from several thousand pee-wee cars buzzing around the Peninsula for the Pebble Beach Road Races last week end must have gone to the teachers' heads. Meeting Saturday in convention at Asilomar, the California Teachers Association decided that God and religion should be "recognized in the public schools as an educational objective." They did not get around to deciding whose religion is to be recognized, Catholic, Methodist, Jewish, Unitarian, Christian Science, Mohammedan, Buddhist . . . or a composite. Representatives of all these faiths, and several more we can't (Continued on Page Eleven)

CARMEL LIGHTWEIGHTS SET SCHOOL TRACK SCORE MARK

The Carmel Padres bowed to Gilroy and beat King City to place second in a three-way track meet held at Gilroy last Saturday. (Live Oak's track team also participated in this meet but they are not in the CCAL so were not timed). The final Varsity score was Gilroy 55, Carmel 42, and King City 32.

Three Varsity first places were picked up for the Padres by Jim O'Dell in the high jump, Kyrk Reid in the discus, and Brayton Witherell in the mile. Witherell usually runs the 880 but he filled in for George Wightman and ran a 5:08 mile, which is good for the first time he ever ran the four-lapper.

Others who placed in the meet for the Varsity were Don Leidig in the shot put and 440, John Farrell in the 880, Gene Mullinx in the 440 and broad jump, Jim O'Dell in both hurdles, Don Rowe in the 220, Mike Stanton in the 100, Paul Fratessa in the mite, and Bob Martin in the 440.

In the lightweight division the Padrecitos set a new mark as they took nine out of the thirteen possible first places, scoring a total of 83 points. In two events, the 660 and 1320, they placed one, two, three.

Those taking first places in the meet were Mervin Sutton in the 660, Bill Powell in the 330, Hampton Stewart in the 1320, John Olivie in the discus, Randy Houghelling, pole vault, Mike Mosolf, high jump and high hurdles, and Tom Petty, shot put. For the second consecutive week the relay team of Holt, Mosolf, Powell and Alvarez broke the 440-time 48.3.

Other point-scorers included Millard Martin in the high hurdles, Dick Holt in the 660, Bob Alvarez 150 and 75, Bill McCormack in the 660, broad jump and discus, Don Petty in the shot put, Clyde Klaumann in the 330 and shot, Mike Mosolf, broad jump, John Stiles, broad jump, Roger Smith, high jump, and Dick Leutzingher and Mike Meheen in the 1320.

van Neumann's potent Le Mans Porsche to take the Pebble Beach Cup race. And there were the heroes by default — like Masten Gregory, the baby-faced Kansas City boy who went to remarkable trouble and expense to get his newly-purchased 4.5 Ferrari here in time for the races, only to stack up the car during Saturday's practice. He received the annual hard luck award following the races.

But the villain of the piece was not a car, or a man, but a relatively innocuous stretch of road designated as Turn 2-A. Located on a curving, dipping portion of the course, Turn 2-A has never caused much trouble or aroused much interest in previous races, but last weekend it became anathema. The pre-race favorite, Gregory's powerful Ferrari, crashed there Saturday. Later during the main race Sunday, three top contenders, including Bob Gillespie's highly-touted Maserati, piled up one-two-three at the same spot. And just prior to this, during the next-to-last lap of the main event for light cars, Turn 2-A was the scene of the first serious accident in the running of the Pebble Beach races.

The accident occurred when Dr. J. K. Skivington crashed his MG-TC into a tree. In rapid succession, his car was struck by three others, only one of which was able to continue the race. Dr. Skivington, a 55-year-old Stockton dentist and gentleman driver who races just for the fun of it, was taken, with head and internal injuries, to Peninsula Hospital, where his condition is still described as serious.

For the most part, the races were run off smoothly and quickly, the intermissions enlivened by a vintage car race and some grand-standing staged for the benefit of a motion picture company filming authentic backgrounds for a movie on sports car racing.

The novice event for light cars was won by Dave Mitchell of La Canada in a Porsche coupe, with Wesley Ruggles of Santa Clara in an MG-TD, second, and Dr. P. S. Talbot of Woodside in another MG, third. The over-1500 c.c. novice race found Louis Breto first in his Jaguar XK-120M, Dr. R. N. Craycroft of Berkeley in a 2.0 Ferrari, second, and Lt. William Earl of Hanford in an XK, third.

Carmel's white hope in the first race, Bert Taylor, suffered a moment of anguish at the line-up when his untried Porsche Sp. stubbornly refused to start. After some frantic pushing and shoving by his pit crew, confusion among the race officials, and Bert's shouted insistence that he'd spent months on the car and, by gosh, he was going to race, the balky engine turned over. Once under way, the car ran beautifully and Bert drove a good race for his first time out, finishing in approximately seventh position. Carmel's other entry, J. P. Kunstle, was forced to retire after a few laps when his new Porsche coupe developed engine trouble.

The Pebble Beach Cup race proved the most exciting, from the spectator point of view. Ken Miles led the pack from the start in his famous Number 50 MG Special, drove a beautiful race until the 24th lap, when a broken crank-shaft forced the car's retirement.

Miles himself hiked back to the pits where a fellow competitor, Cy Yedor, promptly offered his car to Miles for the remainder of the race. For this magnanimous, if unorthodox gesture, Yedor later received the annual sportsmanship award, and his car, with Miles at the wheel, finished third in the race. Runner-up was John van Neumann in the Porsche, one of the cars damaged in the Turn 2-A pile-up. "Hero Driver" Al Coppel provided the fans with additional interest when he lost a front wheel from his red OSCA on the back-stretch, but drove the car on into

Carmel's Hidden City

BY FRED J. TARRANT

Now that Bert Heron has revealed our secret oil discoveries, in the heart of the Carmel business district, it is fitting that I give you the true facts. Rather than mess up the village with dirty, smelly derricks, our jumping beans considerably kept all operations underground. Imagine the impression that tourists would get, having to walk under gushers to do their sightseeing and shopping. And the inflationary effects on real estate, if it had been made public.

Simply for the good of the community the oil was drained away. But, for every barrel kept as our share, five were deposited in secret, underground, offshore pools. At the proper time the State will be advised of these, and benefit accordingly. They are so located that no pollution of the beautiful beaches will ever result.

While on this subject, I may as well reveal other astonishing discoveries we made in Carmel. A large secret tunnel was found, at the foot of Ocean Avenue. It extended directly up and under this avenue and entered a tremendous cave. A vast cathedral room ran northward, under the Carmel Woods' hill, and southward to Hatton Fields Mesa. It was entirely man-made and ingeniously constructed, indicating a high degree of intelligence among these early day pioneers. One of the most embarrassing facts I must reveal, is that the actual founding of Carmel is far different from the generally accepted version. Row upon row of quaint, stainless steel homes lined each side of this cavern. The roofs and sides of each home were covered with magnificent oil paintings, marines, florals, landscapes, surrealists, etc. This is definite proof of the original artists colony.

There were schools, playgrounds and churches, conveniently located. The air-conditioning systems were in perfect order. Carmel Avenue, the main street, ran the full length of the village. Instead of the present day type of gift shops, these were filled with work benches of silver, gold, and platinum. The price tags showed them to be most reasonable, with no taxes of any kind. The Mexican shop had an outstanding display of Aztec craftsmanship.

The murals in that original "Carmel Bank" were delightful, but it was the policy of operation which was most intriguing. The free fountain pen ink dispensers were filled with a superior quality ink, flecked with gold dust. Neat signs offered "note-free loans", with interest at 1% if agreeable to borrower. Those at the Tellers' windows encouraged the use of their "live-it-up, overdraft plan."

Alas, there was no Carmel Pine Cone, indicating a lack of interest in newspapers. Only a large bulletin board, outside the Post Office, gave pertinent information. A few examples noted were: "City Council meets tonight at seven. Subject matter—whether or not one sack of gold nuggets. Find—please contact Mr. Wall Street, New Amsterdam." "J. Stalwart Heron presents 'The Taming of Dan McGrew'—tonight, at the Under The Forest Little Theatre." "Train your dogs to be tidy, please—Police Dept."

Seeking a clue as to the reason for this strange underground mode of living, amidst the paradise of ground-level beauty, we searched the village library archives. And there it was, on a worn, parchment scroll, an old Civil Defense warning: "All residents of Carmel-Above-The-Sea are urged to seek

"Take a ten-minute break, everybody!"

As the music stops, 25 perspiring, hard-breathing cast members flop down on the nearest chair or piece of floor in Joanne Nix's studio where tonite's rehearsal of Pine No More is well on its way. During the break I'd like to introduce you to the show. You'll be hearing a great deal about it from now on and you'll be seeing that cone-less, needle-less pine tree up above which is the show's theme. Here's what it's all about.

That tall young man over in the corner talking to Joanne Nix is Owen Greenan. Every show has to have an author. Owen's the author of Pine No More. When you've met him, you've met the basic reason for the spirit and endless vitality of every member of this cast and crew. He makes most of us feel like we need a metabolism check-up. It's an infectious sort of energy which found our pianist Donna Bisnett saying, "I thought I was lazy until I started working on this show. I think I've got 'Owen-itis.' You can't match him and sit still." Well, nobody in the show is sitting still, certainly not Wray Lundquist at Hillsdale College in Michigan, who has written the show's original score. Wish he were here tonite so I could introduce you, but if you'll listen to that music that Donna's running over on the piano, underground shelter at once. Everyone failing to do so must leave the community. Enemy Condors have been spotted, at high altitude, over our fair village. We have learned from an unnamed source, usually found to be reliable, that dire events are in the offing. Jealous of our peaceful, Garden of Eden, they have plotted its ruination. Their large stockpiles of bombs have been located, one of which has been dismantled. Our scientists have found these to be large, overripe buzzard eggs, in which ground sardines have been added. The explosive effects are disastrous, and no possible defensive weapons are available. Take heed—one and all!

That is the partial story, my friends, strange as it may seem. It would not be wise to divulge more than this at one sitting. At least you have a safe refuge, beneath your lovely village, if still intact, should the present cold and hot war become torrid.

Urgent exploratory matters brought us to Pacific Grove, else we would have remained in Carmel. Our fabulous discoveries, both here and in Monterey, are beyond comprehension. But we must continue, until the full history of the Peninsula is recorded. It is almost unbelievable.

you'll find yourself saying like the rest of us have, "If he's anything like his music—what a man!"

That's Joanne Nix over there. She's working with Owen on the four big dance numbers in the show. She hardly needs an introduction. You've all seen the fine work she's done here on the Peninsula. The work she's doing on Pine No More and the results she's getting are terrific.

The sketches of the set tacked up on that far wall are the work of Colden Whitman. You can't help but get excited over them. Wait until you see the finished product which Floyd Adams, Jim Sulley, and Sam Robison have already begun to construct. Next to Colden's sketches are the costume designs by Karen Williams. She's the young lady by the piano talking to Richard Rea who's doing the lights.

I wish I could introduce everyone else to you—all the cast members here tonite, but you'll meet them on opening night.

Well, looks like those ten minutes are up. You'll be hearing from Owen next week.

"O.K., everybody. Take your places for the second act!" Judy Campbell

Editor's Note—And who is Judy Campbell? Another of our recently grown-up Carmel kids, who is directing the show.

Galaxy Of Talent Lined Up For Valley Bowl Easter Concert

For the second successive year, the Carmel Valley Bowl will be the setting for a gala Easter concert. Last year this concert was inaugurated as a free gift to the community. This Sunday's performance is being sponsored by the American Cancer Society, with all profits going to the benefit of the cancer fund.

Starring in the program will be singing actor John Boles, and the Lucille Norman, featured singer of radio and television. Another feature will be the appearance of the Russian Faculty Quartet from the Army Language School, who have won hearty approval in their several local appearances. Rounding out the concert is the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Clifford Anderson.

The concert will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The Carmel Valley Bowl, located on the Edison Holt Ranch six miles up the valley from Highway 1, is a natural amphitheatre seating up to 15,000. Ample provisions have been made for parking and traffic control. For those without cars, arrangements have been made for buses to the bowl. One bus will leave Purity Market parking lot at 12:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon; another leaves the Monterey Bay Depot at the same time. Charge is 50 cents each way.

Make going to LOS ANGELES the best part of your trip

The streamlined Daylight—the easy, carefree way to go south. While you relax in your foam-cushion reserved seat, the West's best scenery glides by, including 113 miles of Pacific surf. Your sea climbs, too, if you wish. Picture windows are five feet wide.

Eating on the Daylight is half the fun of traveling. Food is delicious and reasonably priced. Both Coffee Shops are open during the entire trip for complete meals and snacks. Tavern Car, too, is open throughout the trip to serve you refreshments.

The Coast Daylight leaves San Jose at 9:12 a.m., Salinas 10:35 a.m., arrives Glendale 5:42 p.m., Los Angeles 6 p.m. Fully air-conditioned, of course.

Bus service connecting with Daylight is available from Monterey Peninsula, Santa Cruz and other points. Ask any S.P. agent for details.

Remember that low fare—only $9.25 one way, $16.80 roundtrip. Children under five 75¢ one way, $1.50 roundtrip; five through eleven $5 one way, $9.45 roundtrip. (All fares plus tax.) Parlor Car and Parlor Observation Car accommodations at higher fare.

Remember, too—all Western Scenery is on the ground. You see it best from streamliners like the Daylight.

Traubel Concert Review

By EBEN WHITTLESEY

Against a striking background of spring flowers and greenery, one of today's outstanding dramatic vocalists appeared last Saturday evening at Sunset Auditorium in the ample person of Helen Traubel. Since she left the Metropolitan Opera Company rather than give up nightclub appearances, Mme. Traubel has become a highly controversial figure in the music world. The other night she gave an eloquent argument, both in word and deed, to support her thesis that some of the great contemporary music of America is being written in the popular vein.

The second song of the evening Maria's Lullaby by C. F. D. Schubert showed the artist's voice in that soft, well-controlled but nonetheless powerful effect which seems particularly pleasing. A fine tone quality and the forceful declamatory style of an experienced opera singer rang out in, Now I Know the Betrayer, from Don Giovanni.

The gentler spirit appeared again in Brahms' Sappische Ode. Sung slowly and smoothly, this fine song developed the full richness of the artist's lower register, and was one of the finest things she did.

Broad dramatic power again appeared in the heroic measures of O Hall of Song from Tannhauser. No greater contrast could have been achieved than by the singing of Christopher Robin's prayer as an encore. Once again the remarkable dynamic control of this artist, and her gift for simplicity were apparent.

After the intermission Mr. Coenraad Bos, the very able accompanist (I don't recognize the title "assisting artist"), gave us two good selections and an encore. Rachmaninoff's Elegie and Mendelssohn's Song Without Words were played with an easy, unobtrusive style, a little heavy on arpeggiando effects.

Mme. Traubel returned to the stage to give Isolde's narrative from Tristan and Isolde in a manner calculated to charm even the anti-Wagnerians. Her relaxed, effortless style and smooth transitions won an ovation. By way of an encore, and as if to epitomize the controversy that led to her severance from the Metropolitan Opera, the artist sang No Other Love and Me and Juliet. The popular lyric gained a beauty and dignity at her hands that was surprising. It was a relief to hear music of this type sung squarely on pitch with no wild sliding and wailing. Wild Geese by David Guion was next, sung with fine simplicity, but a little too much mouthing of the words. The program closed with the powerful and moving Hills, by La Forge. Encores were I Believe and the Brahms Lullaby. I left with the strong impressions of personality as well as talent that are the particular gift of a great artist. If one could hear Mme. Traubel a little oftener it would be interesting to hear a full program of what she considers the best popular music.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

There is one place where we get full returns for our taxes. The State of California, and all the counties therein, have at our disposal experts in the field of horticulture, botany and plant pathology. Monterey County is especially well equipped with scientists who know all the answers and who are more than willing to give aid to poor failing gardeners.

My especial contact is Mr. Roy Bardin, of the State Department of Agriculture at Salinas. One would think that these scientists are too busy to come traipsing over to Carmel at the S.O.S. of a home gardener stumped by some odd behavior of plant life within his domain. But that is just what Mr. Bardin will do, bringing with him all the vast knowledge gleaned from many years of experience.

Recently I had a talk with Mr. Bardin about the insect pests in our area, and casually I mentioned Japanese beetle and asked if this particular beetle were a danger to California Roses. Was I glad that I asked! For Mr. Barden was off in a cloud of dust, with appropriate gestures informing me that Monterey County is free of the Japanese beetle threat. Quarantine has been established for many years and to date the dread Japanese beetle has not found its way into our environs.

We all have been impatient at times when crossing the borders of California from the east to be stopped and questioned . . . even to having our cars examined. But just suppose this restriction were not in order? Think of the destructive plant threats that might invade our gardens.

Recently I had a topsy-turvy happening in one of my gardens. The oddest thing occurred to perfectly innocent erodium. This is a small border plant, with perpetual small pink-violet flowers, used with good results. All of a sudden queer things began to appear. This small plant went into an abrupt change in form and structure and simply turned into something else. A sort of metamorphosis.

I S.O.S.ed the Department of Agriculture in Salinas, and now everybody is stumped. To date the University of California, under the aegis of Dr. R. V. Raabe, has taken this plant for experimental purposes, and as Mr. Bardin remarked, "Nature is in no hurry to reveal her secrets." Eventually this secret will be discovered and we will know the reason for this abrupt change in one small plant.

Another crazy thing has happened in my garden. Believe it or not I have been harvesting chrysanthemums, in full bloom, since the middle of March. Can anyone explain this aberration to me? I did, not cut back the chrysanthemums this year, simply because I did not get around to that task, but who expected them to arrive in full bloom along with the daffodils and narcissus? I dunno.

This all proves that gardening is a fascinating occupation and the more odd things that come to pass only increase one's interest in growing flora.

TRYOUTS EXTENDED FOR MENTAL HEALTH PLAY

Additional tryouts for My Name is Legion, sponsored by the Mental Health Society of Monterey County, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Sunset Auditorium.

Older men are particularly desired for the all-male cast, which includes roles of a senator, a governor, and a middle-aged father. The play will be performed May 14 in Sunset Auditorium, one of three performances planned in connection with Mental Health Week.

My Name is Legion is based on the dramatic autobiography of Clifford Beers, in which the author described his experiences in mental hospitals in the east where he was treated following a mental breakdown. Beers' subsequent efforts to improve conditions in mental hospitals earned him national recognition, and he is credited with having founded the National Mental Health Association.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

When the editor of the Pine Cone and I consulted about a title for this weekly column, we decided that it should be something that would describe the dynamic quality of the modern conservation movement; hence the selection of "Conservation on the March". Recently in the environs of Washington, D.C. an event has taken place that was quite literally "Conservation on the March". Justice Douglas of the U. S. Supreme Court was the leader of the "March".

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, which was constructed during the years from 1828 to 1850 and abandoned in 1924, was acquired by the Government in 1938, together with a right of way averaging about 230 feet. It parallels the Potomac River from Washington to Cumberland, Maryland, a distance of 184 miles. A 23-mile section of the Canal from Washington to Seneca was restored by the National Park Service as a recreation area, but the rest of it is now in an abandoned and wild state.

During the last few years proposals have been made to make the entire route into a parkway, which would open it to automobile traffic and entirely change the character of the region. Justice Douglas, a lover of wilderness, protested, and when two editors of the Washington Post and Times-Herald came out in favor of it, he challenged them to hike the entire length of the canal with him. He said: "I felt that anybody who would walk this towpath and see its beauties in the raw would never want to turn it into a highway."

They accepted his challenge. Others were invited to accompany the party. Some 40 or 50 started from Cumberland on March 20. Nine arrived at the Washington end of the canal on March 27, including, of course, Justice Douglas, having walked every step of the way in eight days. I was interested in seeing the names of two of my friends, Dr. Olaus Murie, President of The Wilderness Society and Harvey Broome, Vice-President, among the "immortal nine", as the papers joshingly called them. Another friend, Sigurd Olson, President of the National Parks Association, was with the group almost all the way.

If we think of conservation in this instance as wilderness conservation, then it was literally a case of "Conservation on the March". The final outcome remains to be determined but Justice Douglas certainly succeeded in his plan to focus public attention on the problem, because the "March" had a great amount of publicity in the Washington papers.

Musical Art Club To Hold Concert At Navy School

Rear Admiral Frederick Moosbrugger is the host for the April concert of the Musical Art Club, to be presented in the lounge of the Naval Post-Graduate School on the evening of Monday the 19th. The artists will be Mary Pasmore, Ronald Gallegos and Mrs. Donald Whitmer who shares the the Pine Cone Justice Douglas's book, "Of Men and Mountains". In my final paragraph I wrote: "In describing his climb of Mt. Adams the author sums up the spiritual significance of a hard-won victory in these words: 'In these moments a man discovers himself; what the limits of his endurance are, how far the spirit will enable him to go. Then he discovers the power of his soul to carry him on. When he wins, there comes an exquisite moment, a feeling that anything is possible . . . '".

This is a very discerning appraisal of the feelings of a true mountaineer on attaining the objective of his exertions. I imagine that Justice Douglas had much the same feeling at the end of his 189-mile hike. Twenty-three miles per day for eight continued days of walking is no easy task. Let us hope that he attains his conservation objective also.

honors as accompanist of the evening.

Miss Pasmore will demonstrate the beauties and musical effects latent in her Viola d'Amore — a fourteen-string instrument of pre-Bach days — upon which she is an exceptional performer. The San Francisco Symphony has twice featured Miss Pasmore as soloist on their program; appearances before smaller audiences have been numerous and she is soon to leave for a tour of the Eastern concert halls. Those who attend this concert will have a unique and pleasurable experience in a field of music seldom heard.

Additional delight will be gained from the singing of Ronald Gallegos. This young man displays a "tenor rubusto" of power and beauty, which has been brought to a high state of operatic utility under careful training. His year with Jan Peerce has placed him in line for further honors in the opera world. His past work included appearances with the Pacific and San Francisco opera companies, and the singing of leading roles in many other presentations over the years. Although quite young his voice and understanding are both exceptional. His appearance is by the co-operation of General Robert McClure, as Gallegos is still in training at Fort Ord.

Readings Tuesday For New Play At Players Circle

Edward Kuster announces that readings for the next play in the Golden Bough Players Circle, Payment Deferred, adapted from the novel by C. S. Forester, will take place Tuesday evening at 8:00, in the Circle at the rear of the Playhouse. The play will be directed by Col. Mason Wright, now a resident of Carmel, who has an extensive background as producer, director and actor.

Payment Deferred is the exciting play in which Charles Laughton and Elsa Lanchester starred in New York on first arriving in this country from England. They had previously played it for a long season in London.

A diversified cast of ten players will be required, including a vivacious feminine "menace" equipped with a French accent, also a girl of about sixteen and a boy of nineteen or so. The remaining characters, six men and one woman, are of mature age. All roles are open, says Kuster, managing director of the Golden Bough.

Beautiful Copenhagen

(During Mrs. Sisson's trip to Europe last summer the Pine Cone printed a number of her letters. Now that she has returned to Carmel, she will complete the report of her impressions.)

BY ASTRID SISSON
PART V

Driving along the coast we passed little villages which lay nestled in the sun, with the sea below as quiet as a silver sheet, creating an impression of peace and serenity. How different must be this coast when the sea goes on a rampage, as it did last Spring, when the seething, boiling caldron it became then slapped its giant's strength against the land. At Hoejrup, on the Stevns Chalk Cliffs, we saw the effects of such storms! Here the turbulent waters had washed away the altar and chancel of the village church.

Other places visited were Fakse, Denmark's largest lime works, and Gisselfeldt, an impressive building from the middle sixteenth century, surrounded by a beautiful park. Roskilde Castle and town is near by, the town ancient Denmark's capital until 1416.

The beautiful caskets holding the remains of Denmark's dead kings and queens are kept in Roskilde. Some of these are completely encased in richly embossed and engraved precious metals, other caskets are decorated with these metals. The only unadorned casket there attracted all eyes.

The rooms in which these caskets are placed have heavy bronze or copper doors, and the walls are covered with paintings, which, like the metal doors, have scenes of important events in the lives of the people resting there. Statues of them are also placed about the rooms. In one of the several chapels is an old pillar into which marks have been cut, indicating the height of the various members of the Royal Family, including those of Peter the Great and the present Duke of Windsor.

I wanted very much to visit a Danish farm before leaving, and on the morning of my last Saturday there, which was warm and sunny, we drove out of Copenhagen to visit one.

We had no sooner left the city than a great flock of bicycles came bearing down on us, a solid mass of wheels as dense and continuous as that which chokes the streets of Copenhagen at the beginning and close of each business day. People were on their way to the allotment gardens, a stretch of land near the city, where each city family may have the use of a piece of ground by applying for it, and on it raise vegetables, flowers, or whatever they wish.

Beyond the allotment gardens, traffic was no longer a problem, and we could watch the lovely country-side instead of the many bicycles. The farms were well-kept, and usually had a double row of beeches leading down to a flower filled front yard. Around the houses were neat fields, and in enclosures browsed well-fed farm beasts.

About noon we stopped for lunch at an old inn. The "kro", as the Danes call their inns, had old oak panelled dining rooms and great fireplaces, and good solid comfort throughout. The "powder room" here as in many other "kros" was for both sexes. The women washed and made themselves beautiful at one side of the large, neat room, the men did the same at the opposite side. Each group seemed completely unaware of the other.

A worried looking young English girl came out of an inner room to ask if anyone could read Danish. Being the only one there who could, I went with her to the inner room where two chains hung from the water tank, each with a neat sign attached which translated read: "Big Flush" "Little Flush."

After a good lunch we continued our drive and came to a farm house which appeared to be just what we had been looking for; but we rather felt like the intruders we were, as we drove into the court yard.

"HE MAKETH ME TO LIE DOWN IN GREEN PASTURES"

*He moves our souls with nature's radiance,
We read His scriptures by the cooling spring
And tapestries of grass stir cognizance
Of His unwearied presence, quickening
The leaven of our happiness until
We find the sheepfold in the spreading field
Of candor and compassion. Then our will
May comprehend the meadow's pregnant yield
Where pollens of the truth dust hallowed ground
To germinate a verdant faith. Unpressed,
Our selfhood disappears, the burdens downed
In spaciousness of fields in which we rest.
And He would make us lie composed, supine,
Until we know His pastures are divine.*

—MARGARET G. HINDES.

MORNING AFTER EASTER

*Fog-heavy, the lid of sky
Rests on roofs of the city.
Inside this shrine to Saint Francis,
Odor of past-Easter lilies, wilting and brown,
Taints the air.
Three candles burn weakly before the shrine
Where scores of fresh ones
Wait to be lighted.*

*A young woman enters; kneels;
She rests a fashion magazine
Carefully upon the rail.
When she leaves she takes it with her.*

*She does not light a candle or drop a coin
In the box marked, "OFFERINGS". The door,
Opening and closing after her,
Fans chill wind against the three, limp flames.
They flicker and go out.*

EXHORTATION

*Oh ye who in this haven dwell
Preserve the beauty of Carmel!
The lazy trees that wander down
Across the pathways of the town
Framing the shops that buy and sell.*

*Preserve the slopes of scented brown
Where all the caves of silence drown
The curse of traffic doomed to quell
This peace on earth!*

*Preserve the dunes! Forever frown
On all that spoils their natural crown
Of pure white sand. Let no renown
Destroy your vision and dispel
This peace on earth!*

—DANIEL HAWTHORNE.

A smiling young woman came to greet us with a welcome so sincere that our feeling of being intruders was completely forgotten. We had hardly stated our wish to see the lovely new farm house, which seemed very funny to the young woman as the buildings were more than a hundred years old, when an older woman appeared, who also radiated welcome. Having greeted us so warmly she said we were just in time for afternoon coffee, and before we knew it had us seated at a garden table with a well-filled coffee pot between the two hostesses, and thick cream and platters of pastry and little cakes at hand, and the conversation progressing as easily as if we were old friends who were continuing from where the conversation left off the last time we were together.

We asked about the new look of the house, and it was explained that this was the year for painting it, and everything worn had been repaired or replaced before the painting was done. From there the conversation drifted to co-operatives of which there are many in the Scandinavian countries, to the raising of pigs, which are grain fed and look as sleek as race horses, with no double chin in the largest herd. I remarked on their length, ascribing it to their well-groomed and solid appearance, but the young farmer, who had come in from the field, explained that the Danish pig has two more ribs than the ordinary pig, and is carefully fed and bred to produce meat rather than lard, in fact, he said, a pig with more than a quarter-inch layer of fat beneath the skin, is not considered first class, and he added that anyone bringing into the pork-raising part of Denmark a pig of some other strain than that which has been brought to its present perfection, is fined.

From pigs the conversation went to butter and eggs, and how carefully those also are produced and inspected. Then came anxious questions about Norway, and eager questions about the United States, and the elder woman asked: "Could Los Angeles be anywhere near your home? Hans, my youngest, lives there."

I explained that as distances are reckoned in the United States Los Angeles is quite near Carmel, but as distances are still thought of in Europe it is remote. She admitted, after much prodding, that she would like to send a small gift to Hans with me, which I was delighted to take, and I promised to send it on with a note telling of the delightful afternoon I had spent with his people.

"Do come and see us again," she urged.

When I told her I was leaving in a couple of days, she took hold of both my arms while she asked eagerly: "Can't you put it off for a day or two?" which she realized was not possible, and so the three thanked me for spending the afternoon with them! Those fabulous Danes!

Before leaving we were taken through the house, which was built in the ancient manner around a court. Three sides housed the farm animals, their feed and the farm tools, one long side housed the people. The two buildings were separated by wide entrances, one from the road to the court, and one from the court to the garden. The house was comfortably furnished in very good taste, and embroideries and house-plants gave it coziness. The kitchen shone with polished pots and pans, and the shelves were edged with crocheted lace made gay with red silk ribbons drawn through the beaded upper edge; the storeroom was filled with large earthen jars containing fruits and vegetables preserved for winter consumption, and when the weather turned cold, smoked and salted meats and sausages, and meats preserved in fats, would be added.

Pleasant conversation occupied our ride back to Copenhagen, revolving around the lovable, hospitable Danes, and whether their food made them what they are or the land they live on, or something within themselves which few other nations are blessed with; and we wondered if

Northfield Reunion Here

The first reunion in this area of alumnae from Northfield School for Girls took place last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Canoles, herself a second generation alumna—both Mrs. Canoles' mother and her daughter, Pat (Mrs. Bud Zanetta) likewise attended the school.

Alumnae from as far away as Gustine and Livermore attended Thursday's reunion, and joined in the general reminiscing on school days: several members of the group had not met for over 25 years. Northfield School, located in East Northfield, Massachusetts, is a protestant religious institution founded by the evangelist, Dwight L. Moody.

Present at the reunion, in addition to Mrs. Canoles, were Miss Alexandra Hague of Carmel and Mrs. John Stinson of Carmel Valley, Mrs. Newman E. Phelps, Miss Ethelinda Higgins and Miss Marjorie Landon of Monterey, Mrs. Harry E. Jones of Salinas, Mrs. Edward F. Kaye of Gustine, and Mrs. Edward A. Quartermann and her daughter of Livermore. Also invited were Mrs. Charles H. Rawlins, Jr., of Carmel, Mrs. Allen G. Finley of Monterey and Mrs. Bud Zanetta of Davis, who were unable to attend.

Pvt. Lehmann Reassigned

Pvt. Klaus Lehmann, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lehmann, has just been selected to attend the Fifth Armored Division radio operators' school at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, for a 12-week course in the workings of field and vehicle-mounted radios.

The technical aspects of the course should prove no problem to Klaus, who last November became one of the first men to receive his master's degree in television from the University of Southern California. Shortly after completing work on his M.A., Klaus was inducted and went through basic training at Fort Ord. His brother, Hans, is a student at the University of Colorado.

Woman's Club Book Section

Monday's meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section has been planned as a tribute to British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, recipient of the 1953 Nobel Prize for literature.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Gleb Drujina, who will join the book section president, Mrs. Mabel Claire Stark, in reviewing Churchill's life and works in the light of contemporary world affairs. Mrs. Drujina will summarize the story of Churchill the man, his heritage and his role in the political life of Great Britain, while Mrs. Stark will discuss Churchill's monumental six-volume story of World War II, the climax of his varied writings and the basis of the Nobel award.

The program will begin at 2:00 o'clock in the clubhouse, and will be followed by a social tea hour.

Stamp Club Host to Scouts

The Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club has invited all philately-minded Boy Scouts on the Peninsula to be their guests at their meeting Monday night, 8:00 o'clock, at Carmel High School. Each visiting Scout will be presented with a gift envelope of 25 stamps contributed by members of the club. In addition, a batch of stamps—including a kilo of French stamps and other foreign issues—will be dumped on a "scramble" table and the guests invited to help themselves. Scout leaders and all philatelists on the Peninsula are invited to join in entertaining the future collectors.

Silva Memorial Exhibit

A memorial exhibition of paintings by the late William P. Silva was held recently at the Telfair Academy of Arts and Sciences in Savannah, Georgia. A native of Savannah, Silva made his home for many years in Carmel, and some of his most famous paintings are depictions of the Carmel coastline and seascape. Eleven of the 30 paintings in the show were loaned by the artist's son, Abbott Silva, of Carmel.

Bachman-Harbort Wedding

Married last Sunday noon in the Carmel Valley Community Chapel were Myrtle Blanche Bachman of Carmel and Robley (Bob) Harbort of Robles del Rio. The informal wedding ceremony was performed by Chaplain John R. Wright.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Maurice Grimshaw of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Whittney. Following the ceremony, several close friends and relatives joined the party for a wedding brunch in Carmel Valley. The new Mr. and Mrs. Harbort and Bob's young son George are now settled in their Robles del Rio home.

Both Bob, who regularly makes music at Mission Ranch, and his bride are long-time Peninsula residents. The new Mrs. Harbort is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Westcott of Carmel, and sister of Mrs. Frank Marcolli, Mrs. William Bjornvold and George Westcott, all of Carmel. Mrs. Fred O'Donovan of Monterey, Mrs. Horace Hawkeswood of Pacific Grove, Lawrence Westcott of Del Monte Park, Mrs. Arthur Beal of Davis and Mrs. John Ryan of Wyzata, Minnesota. Her son by a previous marriage, George Atherton, is radio officer aboard a Luckenbach freighter. The benedict is the son of Ned A. Harbort of Fabrica, Philippine Islands, and a cousin of Ralph Buchan of Carmel.

Stanifords Florida Bound

Donald L. "Doc" Staniford, president of Carmel Kiwanis, and Mrs. Staniford will leave Carmel next Saturday, bound for Miami, Florida, where "Doc" will represent his club at the 35th annual convention of Kiwanis International.

Over 12,000 Kiwanians from every section of the United States, Canada, Alaska, and Hawaii will attend the five-day conclave, May 9-13, which will include an elaborate program of entertainment and recreation in addition to business meetings, seminars and panels.

"Doc" and Mrs. Staniford plan to make the long cross-country trip by car, allowing a couple of weeks for the drive and plenty of leeway for sightseeing. Other Peninsula delegates will be Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor Jim Sloan of Salinas, who'll travel via the Kiwanis Special train, and past Lieutenant Governor Fong Jing and Tom De Lay, president of the Monterey club, both of whom will take the plane to Miami.

Williamses Driving East

Dr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Williams leave today for Kansas City and a visit there with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nicholl, and their five grandchildren.

The Williamses plan to drive east by way of Raton Pass, hoping to catch the high desert wildflowers, and Pueblo, Colorado, where they'll stop for a visit with Mrs. Williams' brother, Dr. R. H. Finney. All told, they'll be gone about a month.

As a climax to her Easter vacation, Pamela Perry is being treated to a three-day trip in which she's sampling virtually every form of transportation available.

Pamela and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Perry, drove Wednesday to San Francisco, took the ferryboat across the bay, then boarded a vistadome train in Oakland. The rail-borne portion of their trip carried them through the magnificent Feather River Canyon to the mountain town of Portola, where they enjoyed an overnight stay. This morning they'll return to San Francisco via train, then fly from there to the Peninsula, arriving home sometime this evening.

Cains Case California

Easily the most energetic visitors Carmel has had in some time are Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Cain, who arrived here from Lynn, Massachusetts on March 31 for a three week's visit with their son George, daughter-in-law Marge, and granddaughter Marci Jo.

Between spells of admiring Carmel and spoiling their grandchild (to the professed dismay of George and Marge), the senior Cains were escorted on numerous sightseeing trips around the Peninsula. Then, since it's their first trip to the west, let alone California, the Cains set off on their own for a look at San Francisco, finding it thoroughly fascinating, and impressing their family by industriously scaling the city's formidable hills. They returned to Carmel last weekend for a breather, which included taking in the road races—these being of particular interest to Mr. Cain, an automobile enthusiast from way back: he and his brother owned the first horseless carriage in Lynn.

This week, driving son George's station wagon, the Cains were off to see Southern California. They planned to drive down the coast, take in greater Los Angeles, then return by way of Yosemite and the Mother Lode country. They'll report on their latest experiences to George and Marge tomorrow, when they're expected back in Carmel for the Easter weekend.

The Cains' California visit will conclude on Tuesday, when they board the plane for the east and home.

Abernethys Return from Trip

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy returned Wednesday from a two weeks' vacation in Southern California. Part of the holiday was spent in Santa Barbara, where Mr. Abernethy enjoyed daily games of golf over the Montecito course. The couple also spent some time in Ojai, where they visited Mr. Abernethy's sister, Miss Carey Abernethy. Another family visit was effected on the return trip, when they stopped by Coalinga to see William Abernethy, Mr. A's brother.

Over Easter and through next week the Abernethys will have as their houseguest Mrs. Charles J. Faser of San Jose, Mrs. Abernethy's sister, who has elected to spend her spring holiday here.

Sharon Brown Here for Holiday

Arriving Wednesday to spend the Easter holiday with her family was Sharon Brown, who's been studying at Sacred Heart day school in San Francisco. The Bill Browns have planned several small diversions in her honor, but if the weather is fair, beach parties will be the order of the day. Sharon returns to the city and school on Monday.

Daisy's Scrapbook

By DAISY BOSTICK

Helen Reynolds comes all the way from Blue Ridge of Pennsylvania to spend each winter at Pine Inn. When I first met her about twenty years ago she, with her husband, Jimmy Reynolds, and her sister, Baylor Hilton, rented a house for the winter and came each year for some time thereafter. The Reynolds couple lived at that time on the banks of the Hudson River in New York. Not far away was her sister Baylor at Scarborough also along the Hudson. I looked forward to their visits here for we were all very congenial. I was with them a great deal and grew to love them. They were real people—the salt of the earth. And how they fell for Carmel. They really belonged here. Then illness and business interests kept them at home and when I next saw Helen she had lost both sister and husband.

She has again started an annual pilgrimage to Carmel. When we get together we talk about the old days when Carmel was still young and unpretentious. Although Helen loved it as it used to be, she says in her gentle New England voice: "Daisy, it was unbelievably beautiful and it still is, regardless of its hustle and bustle and size." She tells an amusing anecdote about a friend who had a friend who had at one time landed in Carmel, walked up and down Ocean Avenue and later had said scornfully to Helen's friend: "Don't talk to me of Carmel, that hick town. There's not a skyscraper nor a department store in the place. You'd be bored to death!"

You can't beat this story of neighborliness. The back line of my lot coincides with the back line of the lot belonging to Betty and Barbara Kynaston. They are interesting girls, grand neighbors and green-thumbers. Such a garden they have and how they work in it! The other day Barbara came through our community gate and said that she had been dividing her yellow chrysanthemums and suggested that she put some of them on my side of the fence. That is the part of my yard reserved for rubbish, compost piles and nasty weeds. It looks vile but I am always a sucker when it comes to accepting plants so I said "Sure!"

The next day I wandered out to the rear of my estate and found a beautiful wide, freshly dug bed, the border curving around a young oak and the bed solidly planted not only with chrysanthemums but with dozens of fox gloves, and I suspect that there are other things sneaked in to be surprises. Oh those gals! And what have they done to me! By comparison with the new flower bed my piles of rock, tall weeds and old boxes, make that part of my yard look like the slums. I didn't want beauty but now that beauty and neighborliness have come my way I shall have to reorganize my ideas and transfer said rubbish to the other side of the lot. Then suppose Clara Konrad comes along and puts in a beautiful bed of flowers on my side of our dividing fence, this time along with my clothes line and garbage can. Oh well, I think I can get most of the stuff near the Hackbath fence and pretty well hidden in a thicket of genista.

Peninsula Week . . .

(Continued from Page One) spell, are to be found in our California public schools. We shall be very interested to see how this comes out.

After nearly two years' bitter fight the Carmelo School District has won the right to vote on whether or not it wants to pull out of the Monterey district and join Carmel. Thursday, last week, the redistricting committee, meeting in Gonzales, voted eight to six to recommend the split from Monterey. If the state board approves, Gladys Stone, county superintendent of schools, will call an election. With feeling running as high as it is in the Carmelo District, the campaigning before that election will put in the shade the activities before the state event to be held in June.

"It's better than a poke in the eye with a stick," Dr. J. F. Williams, spokesman for the new Presbyterian Church, commented on the board of supervisors' action in referring the church's application for a building permit back to the county planning commission for further study. Last month, the county planners said no to the church, which wants to build in Hatton Fields adjacent to Highway No. 1. If the highway becomes a freeway, access to the church from the highway would probably be cut off, and church traffic would create a problem in Hatton Fields, reasoned the planning commission.

The planning commission's refusal came up automatically before the supervisors for approval Monday. The church representatives were on hand to urge their case, hoping the supervisors would overrule the planning commission and give them their building permit. The supervisors did the next best thing for the church, and the church people figure that by the time the planning commission gets around to reconsidering their application, the state highway department will have finished the study of the Hatton Canyon Route and be ready to say they don't intend to put a freeway through on that section of Highway No. 1. This would be quite a blow to the planning commission's "primary" reason for denying the church's permit. There's still the "secondary" reason, summed up by Planning Commission Chairman Tommy Eston, "The planning commission thought that the residents should be given protection of their residential area."

The residents think so, too. Ninety percent of them have protested the building of a church in their neighborhood.—W.C.

to help finance the current political campaigns were discussed at the business session of the meeting. Supervising this phase of the club's activities are Mrs. Saul Weingarten, finance chairman, and Mrs. Paul Low.

Buchheister Shows Wonders Of Sea In Audubon Screen Tour

By L. Lucile Turner

With special emphasis on conservation, Carl W. Buchheister greeted the usually large and appreciative audience in Sunset auditorium on Tuesday night for the last of this season's popular Audubon Screen Tours. Pointing out the role of the sea in maintaining life on the earth, Mr. Buchheister showed pictures of all forms of sea life, from microscopic plankton to the smaller whales, and the innumerable birds that live along the shores, over the sea, some even spending their whole life, except for the nesting period, on the sea.

He outlined the work of microscopic plants in making minerals—all found in sea water—available as food for other plants and animals and ultimately for man. Without these plankton, which include also microscopic animal life, there could be no life on the earth, as they form the basic food. The "pastures of the sea," he said, offer all the basic food elements and build the fertile soil that gives the land crops. Man must conserve these gifts from the sea for continued life.

He warned of the danger to species of birds that are threatened with extinction, mentioning particularly the whooping crane, which spends the winters at a remote spot on the shore of Texas and the summers in the far Arctic, nesting in an area so far undiscovered by man. Numbering now only 24 individuals, only by the most rigid protection by law can they be preserved. Another equally threatened is the largest bird in North America, the California condor, which lives in our own Monterey County and is found in no other state.

The films run on the screen were fascinating and a delight to behold, as well as informing.

Briggs has been associated with La Playa in the capacity of assistant manager for the past eight months. Prior to coming to Carmel he managed the Willcox Hotel in Aiken, South Carolina, and the De Gregoire Hotel in Bar Harbor, Maine.

Silver Star, 3-Ring Show In Preparation

Silver Star, an original musical staged by Three-Ring Productions and sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club, will go before the footlights for three weekends commencing August 21 and closing after the Labor Day weekend.

Plans for the new show were outlined at last week's Kiwanis meeting by Carl Patnude, publicity chairman for the production. Plot by Ric Masten and music and lyrics by Don Adams are now substantially complete for the show, a feature of which will be a spectacular can-can chorus.

laurels. From then on, it was Edwards' race; he finished handily, with a long lead on the second place car, the Cad-Allard driven by John Barneson of Lafayette. Third was young Riddell Gregory in a C-type Jaguar.

In the more refined event of the sports car weekend, Saturday's Concours d'Elegance at Del Monte Lodge, a crowd of some 5000 saw the grand prix d'elegance go to the slickly customized Jaguar coupe belonging to Barclay Cotter of Lakewood, with Alton Walker's long, lean 1913 Rolls-Royce tourer reserve winner.

Rumors that this year's races would be the last over the Pebble Beach course were presumably quelled at Sunday's victory banquet, when S. F. B. Morse, in extolling the sport and its practitioners, declared "I'm for it and I'd like to see it stay . . . for at least another 150 years." By that time, sports cars will doubtless be as great curiosities as oxcarts.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA SEND GREETINGS TO: MAY E. GOLDT, and also all other persons unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the real property described in the complaint adverse to plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto. Defendants.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the County of Monterey, State of California, within ten days after the service upon you of this summons, if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

The purpose of said action is to quiet the title to the premises and real estate described in the Complaint in said action and herein-after described, and to determine all and every claim, right, title, estate, lien, or interest of the said defendants, or either or any of them, in the real property described in the complaint adverse to the said plaintiff; that it be decreed and adjudged by decree of said Court that the said plaintiff, George D. Kavanagh, is the owner in fee of the real property herein-after described, and that the defendants, nor any of them, have no estate, right, title or interest whatsoever, nor any lien upon or lien or claim against said premises and land, or any part thereof, or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto; that the defendants, each and all of them, their agents, servants, and all other persons claiming by, through, or under them, or any of them, be forever enjoined and restrained from asserting any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in or any cloud upon the real property described in said complaint and herein-after described, or any part thereof, and for such other and further relief as to said Court shall seem meet and agreeable to equity, and for the costs of suit.

The premises affected by this suit and described in said complaint, are situated in the City of Monterey, County of Monterey, State of California, and particularly described as follows to-wit:

Lot Numbered 9 and 11, in Block Numbered 3, as said Lots and Block are shown on that certain map entitled "Map of Withers' Addition to the City of Monterey, Monterey County, California, W. C. Little, Surveyor, August 1890", filed for record April 19, 1892 in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, in Volume 1 of Maps, "Cities and Towns", at page 4.

AND YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damage demanded in the complaint as arising upon contract, or she will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

GIVEN UNDER my hand, and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Monterey, State of California, this 30th day of March, 1953.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS

The Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District hereby invites sealed proposals for the construction of a garage and workshop building at the Sewage Treatment Plant.

All of said work is to be done in the particular locations, and of the materials as shown and delineated upon the plans and specifications made therefor and approved by said Sanitary Board on April 6, 1954 on file in the office of the Secretary of the Sanitary Board of said District and to which reference is hereby expressly made for a more particular description of the work to be done and for further particulars.

Said sealed proposals shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, on or before 7:30 o'clock P. M. of the 10th day of May, 1954, at the meeting place of said Board in the Ricketts Building in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California. Bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared on said day and hour.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a cashier's check or certified check payable to the order of the Sanitary District amounting to ten percent (10%) of

Flattrucks (Carrying 1,000 - 4,500 lb.)	1.99	15.92
Flattrucks (Carrying over 4,500 lb.)	1.99	15.92

For all classifications omitted above, the hourly rate shall not be less than $1.99.

Time and one-half for all overtime except Sundays and Holidays, double time.

Notice is also hereby given bidders that it shall be mandatory upon the contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon all subcontractors under him, to pay not less than said general prevailing rates of per diem wages to all laborers, workmen, and mechanics employed in the execution of the contract.

Before submitting proposals the bidder shall be licensed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 9 of Division III of the Business and Professions Code, Chapter 37, of the Statutes of 1939, as amended, of the State of California which provides for the registration and licensing of contractors.

Each bidder must submit with his proposal a statement of his financial responsibility, technical ability, and experience on the form to be furnished prospective bidders.

The District Board reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any informality in proposals received.

A copy of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the Office of the Secretary of said District, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, or from the Engineering Office of Clyde C. Kennedy, 604 Mission Street, San Francisco, California.

such characteristics could be cultivated on a nationwide scale.

Soon came the time to say goodbye again, which seemed more difficult this time because the two youngest members of my family in Copenhagen are two little girls just over four and six years of age, and we had fallen deeply in love with one another.

The gloom was thick and the conversation lagged the last evening until the youngest girl crawled into my lap to say, with rare pleasure, that now she could count to twenty in four languages. Previously she had repeatedly asked me to count to twenty in "American." Both girls attended school, which the younger had just entered, where only French was spoken.

She counted first in English, which is her native language, then in Danish, which she had heard daily during the last year and a half, then in French, and finally in "American", using my pronunciation, to the very least shade, including my Norwegian accent!

The table conversation had stopped while she counted, and the laughter which followed swept the gloom away completely. Later friends dropped in for a last good bye; the girls were allowed to stay up until "Ole Shut-Eye" closed their eyes; and the last evening in Copenhagen was delightfully spent in humor-punctuated conversation and merriment, which seemed very Danish and very right.

Weer Infant

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weer died Saturday shortly following its premature birth in a local hospital.

In addition to his parents, former Carmel residents now living in Monterey, he leaves his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Riggsby, and paternal grandfather Lloyd Weer, all of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held Tuesday.

WILLOW CREEK BRIDGE O.K.

Work was completed on Willow Creek Bridge, state highway No. 1, 65 miles south of Monterey, at noon yesterday. It's smooth sailing all the way down the coast to San Luis Obispo.

Paul Seashore

Paul Theodore Seashore, who had made his home in Carmel since last December, died Sunday in a local hospital following a prolonged period of ill health.

Mr. Seashore was born July 5, 1898, in Grand Forks, North Dakota, and served in the air force during the first World War. Prior to his move to Carmel he lived in New Orleans, where he was vice-president and general manager of the Louisiana Land and Exploration Company. He was a member of Austin Lodge 12, A.F.&A.M. in Austin, Texas.

He leaves a brother, J. O. Seashore of Houston, a sister, Mrs. Arthur Freeberg of Fort Worth, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held in New Orleans.

Lola Henderson

Mrs. Lola Henderson, a resident of Carmel since the first of the year, died last weekend at her home on San Carlos and Seventh streets. She was 65. Death was caused by a heart attack.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Howard Alberts of Chicago, Illinois, and Mrs. Miriam De Clue of Wyoming. Two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Johnstone and Mrs. Edith Haywood, also live in Wyoming.

Private funeral services were held Wednesday.

Easter In The Carmel And Valley Churches

(Continued from Page One) 9:00 o'clock; the childrens' choir, directed by Ann Thoeni and with Daniel Marshall as organist, will sing the anthem Come, Sing with Exultation. The 11:00 o'clock service will offer Holy Communion and the Easter sermon; choir and congregation will join in the Easter anthem, Christ the Lord is Risen Today, with Robert M. Forbes, organist and choirmaster. Rev. Seccombe will preach at both the 9:00 and 11:00 o'clock services, these being his last official acts as rector and bringing to an end his ministry at All Saints', where he has served as rector since November 7, 1946; on May 2 Mr. Seccombe will assume his new duties as Rector of Emmanuel Church in Webster Grove, Missouri.

The childrens' Good Friday service will be held at All Saints' this morning at 10:00 o'clock. A three-hour Good Friday service will be held from noon to 3:00 o'clock, with meditations by the Rev. David Hill. Tomorrow at 5:00 o'clock the church will have Easter Eve baptisms.

The Church of the Wayfarer will have three identical Easter services, at 9:30, 11:00 and 12:30 o'clock. The Chapel Singers, directed by John W. Farr, will sing two anthems: Praise Ye the Lord by Saint-Saens and Alleluia by Ralph E. Williams. Mrs. Richard M. Catlin, harpist, will be heard in Prelude by Tournier, By the Book by Boisdeffre, and Saint-Saens' The Swan, while Mr. Farr will sing the baritone solo, Hosanna by Granier. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray's sermon theme will be And This Is It! Organist Connell Carruth will play, Christ Lay in the Bonds of Death, and Today Triumphs the Son of God by Bach, Dupre's Christ Jesus is Risen, and a 17th century composition, Alleluia. Church School sessions will be at 9:15 and 11:00 o'clock, with care for small children provided during all three church services.

The Good Friday service at the Church of the Wayfarer will be held from 2:00 until 3:00 o'clock.

Parking Petition Started Circulating

(Continued from Page One) Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth streets. There is a house on it and it is in the residence zone.

Single lot next to the city hall, owned by the city, on which there is a cottage.

Enos Fouratt, one of the committee, estimates that the lots will park 400 cars.

The petition proposes to limit the rate of assessments for the district to 25 cents per $100.00, and the time to 20 years. It also proposes that the improvements, including blacktopping and leveling, shall be paid for by the city. And concludes, "It is not proposed that the city install or maintain parking meters on public streets."

Other parking district committee members, in addition to Jackson and Fouratt, are Mark Raggott, Harold Nielsen and Councilwoman Geraldine Smith. Committee members are now looking for some friends to help with the petition passing, and so far have enlisted Jimmy Doud, who signed a petition himself and then took it off to get his relatives signed up, too. This alone takes care of quite a percentage of the assessed valuation in the business district, which forms the boundary of the district's assessment area. Needed are the signatures of the owners of 35 percent of the assessed value of land and real property in the district.

One howl went up this week to the effect that the petition passers were going to get their 35 percent from the four or five big property owners, disregarding the smaller landlords. Fouratt told the Pine Cone this was not true. "I'm going after everybody. It's the only way to get a fair sampling of reaction."

When the petitions are completed they will be brought before the city council for action, a public hearing will be held, and there will be plenty of opportunity for everybody to express opinions and offer suggestions.

Artists At Work Series Starts Monday Evening

The Carmel Adult School takes pleasure in presenting for the third year, the series entitled Artists at Work. This group of demonstrations, which features local well-known artists in various fields, moves this year to the Sunset School Auditorium to accommodate larger audiences.

On opening night, Monday at 8:00 o'clock, Harold Landaker, a popular artist on last year's program, will be featured painting a landscape in oil. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Art Association, and teaches classes in oil, still-life, landscape, and costume-model in the Pacific Grove Adult School. When not painting or teaching, he fills in his "spare time" doing ceramics, carpentry, masonry, etc., on his own. The unusual "two-man" show held earlier this year at the Carmel Art Gallery, featured work by Mr. Landaker, a conservative artist, and his son Walter, whose work is more modern in style. People living here on the peninsula know that Mr. Landaker had been in many fields of art, before coming here in 1946, and had studied at the Chicago Art Institute and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. He traveled with the circus for 15 years soon after completing his art studies, and naturally finds the circus theme, especially clowns, a favorite subject for his forceful and colorful paintings, many of which have hung in both local and national art galleries.

This series, under the direction of Miss Kay Rodgers, is free to the public. The schedule of the complete program, to be held on succeeding Monday nights through May at Sunset Auditorium, will be announced later.

Roy N. Hillyer

Final rites will be held at 3:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Colonel Roy Noyes Hillyer, who died Wednesday at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital in Oakland after an illness of several weeks. Carmel Masonic Lodge No. 680, F. & A.M., of which Col. Hillyer had been a member, will officiate at the funeral services, to be conducted at the Mission Mortuary in Monterey. Burial with full military honors will follow at Mission Memorial Park.

Col. Hillyer was born May 8, 1894, in Hiawatha, Kansas, grew up on a farm there and attended rural schools. Following his graduation from Hiawatha Academy, he entered his college career, studying at Central College in Pella, Iowa, Ottawa University in Kansas, the University of Chicago, Kansas City Seminary, and Harvard University. In 1914, while attending college, he decided to prepare for the ministry; he served as a student pastor at several colleges and universities, and in 1919 was ordained to the gospel ministry.

On September 12, 1916, in Topeka, Kansas, he married the former Blanche Wanamaker of Philadelphia. Shortly thereafter he entered the U.S. Navy and served as a radio operator during World War I, receiving his discharge in 1918.

In 1925 he joined the Kansas National Guard, and in 1940, following the outbreak of World War II, he was called to active duty. During the war, Col. Hillyer was appointed Chaplain of the 10th Army, in which capacity he was in charge of all chaplains in the Pacific Theatre and served under General Simon Bolivar Buckner on Okinawa. Following his return to the States he spent several months in various hospitals, and was subsequently released from active duty with the rank of full colonel. However, he remained on active reserve status until his death. Col. Hillyer's family first came to Carmel in 1944 following his departure for overseas service, and in 1946 they purchased the San Carlos Street restaurant which bears their name. During his years here, Col. Hillyer was a member of the Church of the Wayfarer, as well as belonging to the Carmel American Legion post, the Carmel Masonic Lodge, and the Sojourners. At the time of his death, he was also president of the Carmel Lions Club.

A tribute to Col. Hillyer prepared by the Lions Club reads, in part, "He dedicated himself to the cause of others rather than his own. Truly a Christian and humanitarian, an untiring servant to God, his family, and his country. All of these he served, and served well."

In addition to his wife, he leaves two daughters: Mrs. Elizabeth Blanche Arthur of Carmel and Mrs. Mary Jane Larson of Hayward; and three sons: Col. Roy N. Hillyer, Jr., U.S.A.F., Montgomery, Alabama; T/Sgt. Billy A. Hillyer, U.S. Marine Corps Camp Fuji, Japan; and Lt. Willard K. Hillyer, serving with the Air Force in Tampa, Florida. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Ruby Scholler of Hiawatha, Kansas, and three brothers: Carl Hillyer and Lloyd Hillyer of San Diego and David F. Hillyer of Hiawatha; and five grandchildren.

Bar Assn. Decides Today On Superior Judge Candidates

With the unfortunate death of Judge Henry Jorgensen, it will become necessary for the people to elect a new judge. By way of helping the people to decide who would be best qualified for the job (without political bias), the Monterey County Bar Association, because of its affiliation with the men available for the position, will choose who it thinks would best quality.

Mr. Gordon Campbell, president of the association, reported that there were two meetings held simultaneously by the association this week. One meeting was held in Monterey at the Casa Munras on Wednesday, with Eben Whittlesey presiding. The other meeting was held at Hotel Cominos, Salinas, Gordon Campbell presiding. These groups chose, from the people available for the job, Mr. Eugene Harrah of Carmel and Mr. Stanley Lawson, Mr. James Jeffery and Mr. Edson Thomas, all of Salinas.

Today at noon a joint meeting will be held at Salinas at which the Bar Association will choose from the four men the one who it thinks most qualified. It is felt that a meeting of this type is the most professional way to handle this nomination, since there are no political issues involved.

Holts Have House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Raggio of San Francisco were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Holt last weekend. The Holts entertained a large group of people with a cocktail party at their Carmel Valley ranch home following the Easter concert on Sunday.

Honor guests were Lucille Norman and John Boles, featured artists at the concert.

Mrs. Marion Ganong and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Simpson entertained with a luncheon in honor of the stars prior to the concert. The luncheon was held at Mrs. Ganong's Carmel Valley home.

Hull Asks To Teach; Rogers Appointed Sunset Principal

At Wednesday night's Carmel School Board meeting Mr. Orville Rogers was appointed principal of Sunset School for next year. He will succeed Mr. Arthur Hull who has requested to teach at the grammar school when he returns from sabbatical leave. Mr. Rogers has been acting as principal during Mr. Hull's absence.

Mr. Mitchell announced that one grammar school class may have to operate on a double session basis next year unless arrangements can be made to rent space, as there is not enough money immediately available to the school district to build a new classroom at the River School.

The school board decided to lease one-third of an acre of property next to the Woods School for $2000. The school district has an option on the land until October 1, 1954 when they will buy it for $20,000.

The school board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Edna C. Lockwood who will retire after 25 years of teaching in Carmel. Also, the resignations of William C. Buckman, art teacher at Sunset, Mrs. Hilda W. Morlang, girls' physical education teacher at the high school, and Edward B. Daily, seventh grade teacher at Sunset, were accepted.

Mr. Stuart Mitchell read a letter saying that Miss Enid Larson has been given a fellowship for next year. She has been granted sabbatical leave.

Mr. Mitchell announced that Sunset School will be inspected for termites. Termites in the Sunset School Shop are being exterminated and damage is being repaired.

F. E. DeLamater

Forrest Earl DeLamater, owner and operator of the Lucia Lodge on Highway 1, died there Tuesday morning after a brief illness. DeLamater built the lodge 21 years ago, and had lived there for the past 11 years with his wife, Mildred, and daughter, Nova Claire.

He was born April 22, 1899, in Moab, Utah, and was a veteran of World War II. At the time of his death he was president of the Highway 1 Association.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove, with the Rev. C. A. Ellenwood of Watsonville presiding.

Food And Rummage Sale

At their meeting held last week, the Catholic Daughters of America decided to hold their annual rummage sale next Wednesday from 9:00 o'clock to 6:00 o'clock between San Carlos and Dolores Streets on 6th Avenue. All proceeds will go toward furnishing a room in the Sisters' quarters. Please call the following telephone numbers in reference to the rummage sale: 7-7461, 7-4872, or Los Laureles 9513.

The Catholic Daughters also wish to announce that there will be a food sale on Sunday at Crespi Hall at the Carmel Mission.

New Home For Beady-Eyes

Beady-Eyes, a seven week old Siamese kitten, has found herself a new home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster. Beady-Eyes will be added to the already large menagerie of animals belonging to the Rusters which includes Mack, a one year old tiger stripe cat which was acquired last Easter, Matilda, a four and a half year old dog, and four squirrels. Also, Mrs. Ruster has requested that we tell our readers that if anyone needs any hard-boiled eggs to get in touch with her as her two children, Peter and Heidi, attended four different Easter egg hunts and made quite a haul.

Planning Commission Approves Ordinances

The Carmel Planning Commission met on Wednesday with barely a quorum in attendance. A. C. Bigham of the Cork and Bottle was granted a permit for certain interior alterations in order to convert the basement of the store into a sales display room.

The commission decided to recommend to the city council the adoption of their ordinances regulating the display of directional signs and the requiring of a garage or a parking space for all residences erected in the residence zone.

A long discussion was held on the action of the city council regarding lower Ocean Avenue, reported by the city clerk, Peter Mawdsley. The commission decided to wait until further word from the city council as to what actual action is to be taken. An informal study meeting date was set for 4:00 o'clock on Wednesday, April 28, at the city hall.

So They Stopped Baiting Each Other

If you want to hear a real hassle, listen to Cob James and Whitey Baker on trout fishing sometime. You'd think it was more important than anything.

Cob favors dry flies. Whitey pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Cob swears by a Fan-Wing Royal Coachman; Whitey won't hear of anything but Silver Doctor. And so it goes—they can't even get together on steel rods versus bamboo rods.

But on Saturday, each got back from Fox Creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than a couple of ounces! Then over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right . . . which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, life would be a whole lot pleasanter if we all respected one another's opinions —whether about trout flies, or having a glass of beer, or voting.
After all, a person has a right to follow his own line of thinking.
